RADIO PHONE TO BE TESTED

Marconi Will Try to Talk to England From Canada This Week

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, July 20.—The civilized world will see this week the first steps in scientific experiments as revolutionary in character as anything in modern times. This will embrace tests in wireless telephony from here to the liner Victorian in mid-Atlantic or perhaps further away. This experiment is being undertaken by William Marconi, famous wireless expert, who nearly nineteen years ago startled the world by receiving wireless messages here from his station at Poldhu, on the Cornish coast, about 2,100 miles distant.

Of late years Marconi has been experimenting with wireless telephony and in August, last year, had achieved from twenty to thirty miles. Since then wireless telephony has made rapid progress. Last month in London Mme. Melba gave a remarkable demonstration of singing into a phonograph horn attached to a telephone transmitter equipped with special apparatus provided by Marconi, with the result that she was heard in various cities of Europe—Madrid, Rome, Paris, Berlin, and Stockholm—and by ships at various points on the ocean surrounding the British coast.

HOPE TO SIGNAL ENGLAND.
The experiment here is designed for three purposes: First, to prove the possibility of transmitting telephonic signals across the Atlantic, which, it is believed, will result before the experiment has closed. Second, to send them at least halfway across the Atlantic. Third, to demonstrate to a gathering of British journalists the possibilities of wireless telephony for communication over sea spaces, desert wastes, areas where ordinary telephonic communication is impossible, and especially between the ground and airplanes and between different airplanes operating in the heavens.

The Victorian has been equipped for the experiment with a three-kilowatt apparatus, which is considered sufficiently powerful to enable her to speak with Poldhu on the one side and St. Johns on the other, and it is hoped that before she loses touch with the British station she will be in communication with Newfoundland. This would mean she would be in communication for the whole voyage, not with expert wireless operators or telegraph instruments, but with anybody at the land stations who wished to speak with anyone on the ship by means of the telephone.

OFFICIALS TO SEE TESTS.
For the purpose of demonstrating conclusively the genuineness of the experiments arrangements have been made for the governor of Newfoundland, senior naval officers, members of the Government and other officials and representatives of the local and foreign newspapers to speak with any parties on the ship they may desire and virtually continuous intercourse will be maintained all through the voyage.
The station on Signal Hill, which is purely experimental, has been con-

MRS. CHARLOTTE P. CATHROP - CUMMINGS, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Richard Grant Cathrop, who separated from Glenwood Tremaine Cummings two months after their marriage in Syracuse, December 24, 1919. Mr. Cummings has gone to his Texas oil fields. Mrs. Cummings served as a nurse overseas with the Hazard Unit for eighteen months.

trived by utilizing the Cabot tower or signal station for headquarters and erecting a wooden mast 180 feet high in three sections and secured by steel cables alongside the tower. The aerial cables, which are a feature of wireless stations, are strung from the top of this spar to the center pole of the station and the vertical lines run to the machinery which has been installed in the main room of the tower. South of this mast, a fifteen-horsepower gasoline engine has been set up in the wooden shed for the purpose of energizing current sufficiently powerful to send wireless impulses nearly 2,000 miles.

LOOK FOR GOOD RESULTS.
It is hoped this station can reach the Victorian when half way across the Atlantic, if not before, and once she is spoken with she will be kept in touch until she reaches Sydney, Nova Scotia, where she is to land the press party on next Tuesday.

The instrument is under the charge of Electrical Mogridge, who directed Mme. Melba's experiment in London last month. He has no doubt even better results will be attained, because he says the installation now used is more powerful and there will be no land whatever intervening between the station and the ship, whereas in England the case was very different. He believes it possible Poldhu may be spoken with, and when done with the Victorian he will make further experiments, probably from the Canadian mainland with Poldhu and definitely establishing wireless telegraphy from land to land.

Early in 1914 Marconi claimed he received wireless telephonic signals from Poldhu at his station in Glace Bay in Cape Breton, but the war interfered with the experiments and they were abandoned. Now they are being resumed on the same lines.

GASOLINE FAMINE GRIPS CALIFORNIA

Three Gallons Daily Limit. Many Motorists Take "Shanks' Mare."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 20.—Unless there is relief soon from the gasoline shortage in California, walking promises to become the favorite outdoor sport of erstwhile motorists. Two or three gallons a day is about the best that any car owner can hope to obtain from a service station here now, and he can't get that until his tank register shows that he is out of fuel.

Prices are not going up, and, in fact, are below those in the East, but the East has plenty of gasoline and the West appears to be running out of it. People starting on a 500-mile jaunt to San Francisco, for instance, have to start out with two or three gallons, hoping to find a service station along the way.

HAVE TO WALK.
As a result of disappointments midnight walking along the road to San Francisco has become frequent, as tourists found themselves suddenly without "gas" and nowhere to get it. One of the principal sufferers happened to be Roscoe Arbuckle, known as "Fatty Arbuckle" in the movie world. Arbuckle recently had made to order a huge automobile at unprecedented cost, and now he has a blue-enamelled, nickel-plated wonder bus that looks like a half section of a Pullman palace car—with no place to go.

"I went down to get some 'gas' the other day," "Fatty" explained, "and the filling station bird told me he could give me only three gallons. 'Ford,' says I, 'that wouldn't even flood the carburetor,' so I had to put the thing back under a roof."

BACK TO SHOW WINDING.
There it is today, on display in an automobile show room, the object of admiring gazes, but almost a total loss without insurance until the gasoline shortage has passed.

MEMBERS OF LODGES SPEND DAY AT BEACH
Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors on Twelfth Annual Outing at Chesapeake.

Local members of the Modern Woodmen of America and the Royal Neighbors of America, are holding their twelfth annual excursion today at Chesapeake Beach. Burton G. Cowles, clerk of the former organization, is in charge of arrangements. M. L. Dicus is consul of the organization.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon an athletic program will be presented, including a shoe race for boys between 8 and 12, a potato race for girls between eight and twelve; sixty-yard dashes for boys and girls between twelve and fifteen; a baseball throwing contest for women, and a running broad jump for men. At 6:30 there will be a prize waltz, the music to be furnished by Bert Saulsman's wild jazz orchestra.

Those unable to spend the entire day at the resort will make the trip on the train, leaving the District line at 6:30.

They are drawn toward the mouth end, accumulate there, and make the latter stages of your smoke anything but enjoyable.

Moreover, they excite the salivary glands, and frequently induce the detestable habit of spitting.

It took me years to learn how to destroy the effects of these gums in the tobacco leaf.

I regard this process—which is exclusively my own—as one of the great discoveries in the science of cigar-making.

And it is part of the production of the ADLON cigar—the crowning achievement of my career; the final result of some five hundred individual experiments in curing and blending tobacco.

Yet it is only one of the points that made the ADLON a really remarkable cigar.

The ADLON is a Havana-filler-and-shade-grown-wrapper cigar. I'll stake my reputation as a cigar expert that once you've tried the ADLON you'll make it your permanent choice against any other cigar at any price.
